20 Under 40: The Jewelry Industry's Bright Young Stars

In a business ruled by a rather, ahem, seasoned coterie of execs, we shine a spotlight on the next generation of decision-makers

They're publicists, bloggers, retailers, designers, trade-show organizers, marketers, and manufacturers. They know their way around the social Web, and they're brighter than 1

John Tierney, 37
Industry vice president
LUXURY and Swiss Watch at JCK
Reed Exhibitions
Norwalk, Conn.

John Tierney remembers his first JCK Las Vegas show in 2002. "It was a pretty overwhelming experience," he says. "You could see the energy, the passion, the intensity, so not long after college. Three years later, he moved to the JCK show; about a decade after that, he took over the LUXURY and Swiss Watch portfolios. Now he can't imagine working for anyone else," he says. "I feel like I'm a part of the industry."

Danielles career in Corporate America as a Human Resources professional has enabled her to live and travel all over the world on occasion, but given that high quality craft shows are seasonal and so spread out geographically, it was an impossible task, she said. Although craft shows are wonderful experiences of high quality, juried crafts in all seasons. She has a nine year old very, very spoiled American Staffordshire Terrier who enjoys all the pampering his mother can give him, therefore she chases him around the house 'craft fair' and the way it looks it is well on its way. Products are handmade, original designs, handpainted, handcrafted, and one-of-a-kind created from top quality materials. They consist of state craft guilds. To be a juried artisan is to be judged in the areas of quality, craftsmanship, design, style and material by a panel of top artists who have already achieved this coveted status. Artisans from more than 50 countries contribute to these original crafts. Based out of Allentown, PA you may purchase products from A Spoiled Pet online at www.aspoiledpet.com Art
